Miss you every day.. so glad you came home to share your days with us. Needed you to be home. You gave the biggest hugs.. introduced you to classic rock, showed you what I knew on the guitar and you took it much further. Loved jamming with you. Gave you my Ibanez and you wore it out.. grew up with you like my little brother. Been thru lots.. missing you so much. Hard to sum up a lifetime in a few words. Love you pal...

What a beautiful picture of Ricky and you, Reece. Words seem useless at a time of grief but please know that I'm praying for you , Carol, Rick and all your family, that God will bring comfort to your hearts as you celebrate Ricky's life and share precious memories of all your good times together. I would have liked to know him better but am grateful for the occasional conversations we shared online. His kindness, intelligence and humor always came through. I remember him as a young boy when visiting at your grandparents house in Aiea Heights, always wearing a bright smile, laughing and engaging. Please share our sorrow , from your California family to all your family for what Ricky had to go through and, although we cant physically be with you, you will remain in our thoughts and prayers. We'll be celebrating with you that now Ricky is pain free, joyful with Jesus and talking and laughing with your grandpa. God bless you all with the kind of peace that only He can give. Love, Diane and family

I'm sorry that I never knew Rick Jr as it seems he had many of the same talents & good family gifts & traits of his dad & aunts & uncles and grandparents. Whom I knew from small kid time. I always deeply admired your grandmother whom moved with extreme beauty & Grace that emanated from the inside out. It was a grace that stood out. And she must already be welcoming her grandson in that place that the rest of us have our fingers crossed that we'll hopefully someday be able to gain entrance to also. Praying that you'll find comfort strength from the memories of their legacy. Erin Powers & family
